

Anyone?... Buhler...?

welcome to www.keithbuhler.com

Hi, thanks for visiting. I am currently teaching philosophy and ethics at Asbury University and at the University of Kentucky. I have more than 15 years of teaching experience and really love what I do.

I'm writing a dissertation on virtue ethics. Specifically, I'm defending a neo-Aristotelian account of virtue ethics grounded in natural teleology. I analyze the debates between Philippa Foot, John McDowell, Rosalind Hursthouse, and Alasdair MacIntyre, and argue that virtue, practical reason, and happiness are intrinsically related concepts that must be understood in dynamic relation to each other.

I have competences in philosophy of mind, ancient philosophy, and philosophy of religion. My ultimate goal of doing philosophy is to flourish as a human being in community, and to help students do so as well.

My other online profiles: University Kentucky, PhilPapers, Academia.edu, and RateMyProfessors.com.
